

Ann Northey Ditsworth named the Designated Executive Director for the Presbyterian Camp on Okoboji

After a thorough search process lead by the Camp's Board of Directors and coordinated by Interim Directors Dorman & Janet Leader, Ann Northey Ditsworth has been selected to serve in the Designated Executive Director position. In this roll, Ann will provide leadership for the programs, facilities and staff with a constant focus on the mission: "Presbyterian Camp on Okoboji seeks to be a sacred space where all can experience God."

As a long-time Dickinson County resident, Ann has been involved in a variety of aspects promoting community betterment throughout the Iowa Great Lakes Area. From serving on her church's "ministry and facility" task force and building committee to working with the multi-county economic development organization, and from two-term Mayor to county-wide community visioning process coordinator, Ann has enjoyed diverse opportunities to strengthen and improve the community. She is excited to now focus her energies, along with the Board and Staff, on a strong, effective ministry future for the Presbyterian Camp on Okoboji.

Ann and her family reside near Milford, Iowa. She and her husband Lee will celebrate 15 years of marriage in June and have been blessed with two children: Drake (9) and Lauren (5). As a family they enjoy boating and fishing, gardening and nature hikes, as well as traveling to see extended family and friends.
